Dan Sytsma, President of Melillo Consulting Announces Retirement

January 10, 2023

Dan Sytsma, President of Melillo Consulting is announcing his retirement. Sytsma's retirement will be effective January 2023. After dedicating 40+ years to the technology industry, Sytsma will lend strategic support to marketing and sales go-to-market initiatives for clients in a consulting capacity. Sytsma joined the firm in 2016 as vice president and general manager and was later promoted to president. During his tenure, the firm realized 20% year-over-year growth, with 87% year-over-year growth of its Professional Services business.

Prior to his career with Melillo Consulting, Sytsma's growth in the IT industry was spent working for Hewlett-Packard Enterprise, Computer Design & Integration, LLC, and Logicalis. Sytsma is an alumni of Seton Hall University (BS, Management) and Fairleigh Dickinson University (MBA, Marketing). Sytsma's philosophy is to think differently about a given scenario because success lies in gaining a distinct perspective, understanding the underlying motivation of everything.

"I have enjoyed watching the business grow over the past seven years and I am proud of the accomplishments we've made as a company," said Sytsma. "I am eager to see what the next chapter brings for Melillo under the leadership of Scott Dunsire, someone with such an impressive track record of growth and a reputation for creating an energized company culture who puts the customer first."

"Dan has been an invaluable member of our team and a crucial contributor to our expansion over the past several years. I look forward to continuing to partner with him in the years to come in his new consulting capacity," said Mark Melillo, chairman of the board.
