

DATA MANAGEMENT

MAKING SMART DECISIONS

As data continues to grow at an exponential pace, keeping up with the massive influx creates significant challenges for many organizations. In the past 12 years alone, data interactions—the capture, creation, consumption, and copying of data—has spiked by 5000%. By 2025, the amount of data generated is expected to exceed 180 ZB.*

In today's data-driven world, data management is not a nice-to-have—it's essential. Without it, your organization will be prone to operational, technical, and business risks, performance issues, and an inefficient use of resources. With robust data management protocols in place, you can minimize those risks while gleaning additional insights that power critical business decisions, deliver greater value to customers, and improve your bottom line.

At Melillo, we can help you consolidate and standardize your data to ensure it is used efficiently, cost-effectively, and in compliance with external regulations and corporate governance standards.

OUR DATA MANAGEMENT PROS OFFER ADVANCED EXPERTISE IN:

- Storage design and optimization: Take advantage of the latest advancements in storage design in order to gain a better, more cost-effective way to store and manage your data—from SAN to flash to cloud and more.
- Data consolidation and migration: Move big data from one or more sources to another or consolidate and combine data from various legacy systems to give you better control over your data. Simplify your operations and turn this complex, business-critical task over to the experts at Melillo. We'll bear this burden for you.
- Data security: Ensure your data is protected and adheres to the ever-changing industry-standard best practices. Our deep bench of knowledge in data security and encryption will back you up.

Our team will help you not only make sense of your vast quantities of data, but also ensure it is up-to-date and reliable to support critical business decisions. For more information about Melillo's data management capabilities or to speak to a data management expert, contact us here.
