VERA FOR ALM/QC IS GONE. AGILIPROVE PICKS UP WHERE IT LEFT OFF—AND THEN SOME

With VERA no longer supported on ALM/QC, you may be wondering what's next for managing your end-to-end electronic record approvals and maintaining compliance with regulatory standards. AgiliProve steps in as the natural replacement, offering the same robust capabilities with even greater control, flexibility, and support.

Like VERA, AgiliProve supports electronic signatures, audit trails, and 21 CFR Part 11 compliance. Both tools eliminate paper-heavy processes with traceable digital approvals and integrate with ALM/QC to support the full validation lifecycle, from requirements management and defect management to test planning and execution.

WHERE AGILIPROVE SHINES:

- Purpose-built to function as a native extension of ALM/QC
- Configurable, out-of-the-box templates that align with your SOPs from day one
- Approver's view for sign-off without logging into ALM/QC, streamlining the approval process
- Snapshot approvals that capture the exact state at the time of signing for audit clarity
- Excel add-in for bulk data import to reduce timely manual entry
- Controlled partial re-execution of test scripts that allow you to validate only what's changed
- Built-in validation documentation to speed implementation

And because it's designed, delivered, and supported entirely by Melillo, you work directly with the team that built it. That means faster answers, smarter guidance, and a smoother experience from day one.

Businesses that rely on AgiliProve for their validation workflows have noted a 25–50% reduction in costs, faster validation cycles, shorter project timelines, and improved team productivity. With Melillo's tooling and knowledge with ALM migrations, we can make the VERA-to-AgiliProve conversion seamless.
